Military Museum of Menorca. The military history of Menorca from the Eneolithic to the present day. It is a spacious building built in 1771 by the British in the old Cala Corb barracks, in Es Castell. The building that over time housed a British barracks, the Menorca Military Hospital, the Artillery Academy, the Menorca Coast Regiment and currently the Menorca Military Museum. The Museum has its rooms on two floors. It is first accessed from the Explanada de Es Castell, by a staircase to the rooms on the first floor, in each of which a moment in the military history of Menorca is exhibited, from the Neolithic period to the present day.
